Tips for Sharing Concerns with Families

- Set aside mutually convenient time to discuss concerns
- Discuss from a framework of support for the child and family
- Listen to family concerns
- Invite family to share their perspectives
- Discuss child strengths as well as needs
- Share specific information (recent assessment information, DRDP results, observation information, etc.)
- Provide referral information for the child as appropriate (see Reasons for Concern)
- Share plans for provider responses to needs (program modifications, staffing support, etc.)
